ORDER

During the service of an employee there may occur certain circumstances which lead to recovery of excess monetary benefits wrongfully extended to him due to various reasons such as irregular fixation of pay on promotion, revision of pension, grant of a status or grade which the employee concerned was not entitled to, payment of salary on a higher scale and other cases. When the excess payment is detected by the authorities, the excess amount will be recovered from him.

2. In certain cases such as, revision of pay and pension consequent on revision of pay scales, grant of time bound higher grade, sanction of pension etc., an undertaking is obtained from the employees to the effect that the excess pay and allowances/pension, if any, made to them will be refunded. But there are several other instances such as wrongful grant of increment, fixation of pay on promotion, payment of leave salary etc. where such prior undertaking agreeing to refund the excess payment is not obtained.
